TAPER LINCOLN COLLECTION SALE TO ALPLM

LINCOLN, THOMAS (father of Abraham Lincoln)

[Artifact]

Cherrywood day bed made by Thomas Lincoln, Abraham Lincoln's father.

Classical revival style, with ladder form scrolling sides and flaring legs and flanking a wide apron tail. 29 1/2 in. (h) x 83 in. (w). Commissioned by Richard Vernon, Hardin County, Kentucky. Then passed to his daughter ; then to Mary Sweets of Elizabethtown, Kentucky. One of a handful of surviving pieces of furniture built by Abraham Lincoln's father, a farmer and trapper in Rockport, Indiana, who supplemented his income during a brief period by working as a carpenter, building cabinets and furniture. The bed is well-documented and has been written up several times in subsequent years. See Lincoln Lore, February 1964, for an article on furniture built by Thomas Lincoln. Appeared in the exhibition "Abraham Lincoln : A Personal Journey" at the Gerald R. Ford Presidential Museum.

LINCOLN, THOMAS

[Artifact]

An American cherrywood plantation desk made by Thomas Lincoln. Circa 1820.

The upper portion with a cove-molded projecting pediment over two doors glazed with six panels. Each panel bound by mullion bars and enclosing separate shelves. The lower portion with a flap-up writing surface covering a well over a wide apron with central keystone tablet medallion. On round tapering legs ending in in-cut knees and globular feet. 73 1/2 (h) x 42 1/2 (w) x 28 1/4 in. (d). This piece was owned by Dr. Crook, the first practicing doctor in Spencer Co., Indiana; then given to Judge Thomas De Bruler of southern Indiana ; then to Dr. A.D. Garlinghouse, druggist and doctor in Rockport, Ind; then passed to his grandson, Townsend Taylor, of Rockport and South Bend.

[CIVIL WAR]

[Engraving]

KIMMEL & FOSTER.

"Outbreak of the Rebellion." 1865.

One of a series of allegorical history prints, published after the Civil War. Reflects the Republican version of the war, with a special eminence given to the contributions of the capitalists who pour out their treasure at Lincoln's and Liberty's feet. Southerner John Floyd, a member of James Buchanan's cabinet accused of financial corruption, greedily rakes in the coins across the splitting countryside. Jefferson Davis and his Vice-President Alexander H. Stephens are portrayed just behind the tearing flag. The broken shackle anachronistically refers to the abolition of slavery. James Buchanan slumbers through the crisis. To the printmakers' credit, they based Lincoln's portrait on an 1861 photograph rather than one of the more popular ones made by Brady's studio in 1864.

BOOTH, JOHN WILKES.

[Script]

Inscription in printed script, belonging to Booth. 1858.

Signed and dated : "J.W. Booth. Arch St. Theatre. 1858." And with pencil markings in text indicating that Booth probably acted in the role of Captain Vauntington. Script is The Spectre Bridegroom by W.T. Moncrieff, published New York, 1821. 16mo. 26 pp. Original paper wrappers, paper-covered spine.

BOOTH, JOHN WILKES.

Autograph manuscript signed ("J. Wilkes Booth"). 1860 Feb 18.

Two four-stanza lines of poetry, addressed to Miss [Mary C.] White, Richmond, and written in her "Forget-Me-Not Album." Booth's poem is an acrostic, spelling "Mary" and "John." 1 page. 4to. Hand-painted and gilt-decorated boards, with small mother-of-pearl inlays. Album contains additional entries by other members of the Marshall Theatre Company of Richmond, including Samuel K. Chester, whom Booth later invited to join his plot against Lincoln, and W.H. Caskie, an officer of The Richmond Grays, a group to which Booth also belonged.

[BOOTH, JOHN WILKES].

Five manuscript sheets of stage and scenery directions for five different plays in which Booth appeared.

Written in an unidentified hand. Macbeth (1863 Jan 26) ; Damon and Pythias (1864 May) ; Richard the Third (1862) ; Robbers (1862); and one from an unidentified production, dated "26 January 1863" at the end. . Together, a total of nine pages. Folio and smaller. Two of the sheets have his name "J.W. Booth 1862" at the top corner ; one with his name written in full at the bottom.

BOOTH, JOHN WILKES.

Autograph letter signed ("JWB"). 1864 Apr 4.

New Orleans. To "My Dear Miss." 2 pages. 12mo. Flirtatious note, enclosing a picture "of my humble self" and noting that he is leaving for Boston soon.

BOOTH, JOHN WILKES.

Partly printed document, signed. 1864 May 30.

Stock certificate for twenty-five shares granted to Booth in the Boston Water Power Company, dated Mar 6, 1863 and signed by the President of the firm. Boldly signed and dated by Booth on verso. 2 pages. Oblong 8vo. Decorative printed border in red and black inks. Small punctures indicating cancellation. Booth sells his shares to J.N. Fiske. Witnessed by Joseph H. Simonds (both men associated with Booth as theatrical managers.)

BOOTH, JOHN WILKES.

A collection of six autograph manuscript letters. two personal artifacts and four cartes-de-visite portrait photographs, all given by John Wilkes Booth to his girlfriend Isabel Sumner.

Every schoolboy knows that John Wilkes Booth's hatred of Lincoln was deeply rooted in his pro-Southern, pro-slavery ideology. But what is not so well-known is the fact that ten months before he put a bullet into the President's head, Booth pierced the heart of a 17-year old Boston girl, Isabel Sumner, who he had met in the summer of 1864 during his triumphal starring theatrical engagement at the Boston Museum. She was by all accounts a beauty and he was immediately distracted, launching an aggressive correspondence to capture her attention and win her favor. Six letters survive from that mysterious romance as does the bitter possibility that had Booth lost himself in love, he might never have found his way to Ford's Theatre on the night of April 14th, 1865.

TAPER LINCOLN COLLECTION SALE TO ALPLM

- a) Autograph letter signed 1864 June 7. 6 pp. 8vo. A lengthy, passionate love letter asking her "never to show my letters even to your dearest friends" and confessing his love.
- b) Autograph letter signed 1864 June 17. 2 pp. 8vo. Hoping she has not forgotten him, asking "why not write me," describing "oil and smokes" of the oil fields.
- c) Autograph letter signed 1864 July 14. 4 pp. 8vo. With envelope. Noting his return from Pennsylvania and the forwarding of her letters, expressing his continued love, his hope of seeing her soon, and noting "I am tired and sick."
- d) Autograph letter signed 1864 July 24. 4 pp. 8vo. With original envelope addressed by Booth. Fearing that he has offended her in a previous letter and apologizing, melodramatically stating "I will trouble you no more, if you say the word," and again asking her not to let anyone see his letters.
- e) Autograph letter signed 1864 Aug 26. 2 pp. 8vo. Acknowledging receipt of flowers from her, explaining that he has been "in bed waiting for the doctor to come."
- f) Autograph letter signed 1864 Aug 27. 1 page. 8vo. Reporting that the doctor has bled him and "I am sure I will be in bed all day tomorrow," but hoping to see her in a day or two.

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

[Invitation]

Partly printed document, accomplished (not signed) by Mary Lincoln. 1865 ca. Feb 13.

Washington, D.C. One page. Oblong 12mo. With original envelope, engraved "L", boldly addressed by Mrs. Lincoln. The President and Mrs. Lincoln invite Vice-President Hamlin to a dinner or Zachariah Chandler on Monday, February 13. Hamlin was a lame-duck Vice-President at that date and not often in Washington. Invitations to him from the White House are rare.

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

Autograph letter signed ("Mary Lincoln"). 1865 Feb 15.

Washington, D.C. To Mrs. Caroline Wright. 1 1/2 pages. Large 8vo. Stationery with black borders. Fine letter to the wife of the former Governor of Indiana. Mary thanks Mrs. Wright for a piece of hair jewelry and adds that "we have had a very busy winter" and that the White House is under repair. The Wrights owned a page of manuscript with text from the Second Inaugural written in President Lincoln's hand. This letter not listed in Turner.

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

Autograph letter signed ("Mary Lincoln"). 1865 Oct 5.

Chicago. To Sally Ome. 4 pages. 8vo. Mary Lincoln refers to the possibility that Congress will pass an appropriation for her. Sent six months following Lincoln's assassination Mary writes desolately: "I am so anxious once more, to be quiet, in a home of my own, suitable to receive my husband's friends....yet very seldom, can I summon courage, to see them. I must do better, by degrees -- when I get into a home you must come & lecture me for my darling husband would never have approved, of such entire seclusion...." Not in Turner.

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

Autograph letter signed ("ML"). 1865 Oct 10.

Chicago. To Alexander Williamson. 2 pages. 8vo. Stationery with broad black borders. Mary asks whether their carriage "is to be sold at auction in N.Y." and adds : "How is this?" She notes that she has no use for visiting cards, that "Taddie has recovered....& can almost read...God has blessed me in my remaining sons...since my beloved husband was taken away, I do not desire to live." Williamson was Thomas ("Tad") Lincoln's tutor. Not listed in Turner.

TAPER LINCOLN COLLECTION SALE TO ALPLM

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

Autograph letter signed ("Mrs. Lincoln" signature appears in text). 1865 Oct 11.

Chicago. To Edwin M. Stanton. 1 page. 8vo. Asking Stanton to oblige her by appointing a Mr. Pike, who is "a most excellent young man...and was a favorite of both, my husband & myself." Not listed in Turner.

Included with :

A copy of Pike's letter to Stanton, dated December 15, 1865.

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

Autograph letter signed ("Mary Lincoln"). 1865 Oct 26.

Chicago. To Frank [Francis] Bicknell Carpenter. 2 pages. 8vo. Stationery with black borders. With original envelope. Reminding Carpenter of his promise to send a copy of "my beloved husband's portrait...one quite as accurate as in the 'Emancipation Proclamation'?" A year later Carpenter did send a portrait with which Mary was extremely pleased. Turner, pp. 278 - 79.

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

An exceptionally rare archive of correspondence between Mary Todd Lincoln and Francis Spinner, United States Treasurer, regarding President Lincoln's unpaid salary that Mary felt was owed to her as his surviving widow. Included are five autograph letters signed by Mary Todd Lincoln. The remaining four documents that complete the collection include manuscript and printed materials. One of these is the actual receipt or money order for the fee that Congress had allotted to the widow of the late President. The documents cover the period 1865 Dec - 1866 July.

After months of waiting, on December 21, 1865, Congress finally voted to grant a year's presidential salary of $25,000 to the anxious Mary Todd Lincoln. This amount was no more generous than that given to previous widows of the country's deceased leaders. After the necessary bills and deductions had been subtracted from the $25,000 sum, Mary was left with only $22,000 -- a figure far less than what she thought she deserved. According to Turner's book : "There no longer seemed any chance that she would receive the remaining three years' salary or any

Louise Taper & Craig Cooper

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

Autograph letter signed ("Mary Lincoln"). 1869 Dec 5.

Frankfurt. To Sally Orne. 4 pp. 8vo. Mary, still in Frankfurt and still waiting for Congress to deal with her Presidential pension, writes her friend: "What changes time, brings to us all -- I sometimes feel as if I have lived a century. 'My life, is not dated by years.' Taddie, as usual is hurrying me so I will close -- with ever so much love to your daughters and yourself. I shall feel anxious until I learn, whether you have received Sumner's letter -- you are a wicked woman to be carrying on so many flirtations..." Turner, p. 530 (partial text only.)

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

Autograph letter, not signed . 1869 - 70.

Frankfurt. To Sally Orne. 4 pp. (partial text only ; begins on page 5). 8vo. Later in the same month, Mary again writes to Sally Orne, expressing her concerns over Congress' actions on behalf of her pension and devoting much of the letter to praising Charles Sumner. Not in Turner.

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

Autograph letter signed ("Mrs. A. Lincoln"). 1870 Feb 2.

Frankfurt. To James Orne. 4 pp. 8vo. Desperate to resolve her pecuniary situation, Mary appeals to Sally's husband James, the wealthy Republican benefactor: "Dear Mr. Orne, will you, in your great goodness, ascertain as you have the means of doing, whether the services of my great & good husband, will be recognised, by his country. The silence so far, regarding some relief for me in Congress -- is very painful to me. Will you forgive the liberty I have taken & inform me, when you receive this, candidly what expectations, I may have...." Not in Turner.

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

Autograph letter signed ("Mary Lincoln"). 1870 May 28.

Marienbad, Bohemia. To James Orne. 6 pp. 8vo. Three months later, her finances apparently in freefall, Mary renews her appeal to Mr. Orne in response to word that Congress has turned its back on her situation. She mentions the Senate committee report tabling her bill because of lack of precedent and the fact that her wealth, as they calculated it, amounted to nearly $60,000. She strongly refutes that charge. Turner, p. 561.

LINCOLN, MARY TODD.

Autograph letter signed. ("M.L.") 1871 Fall.

Chicago. To Rhoda White. 7 pages. 8vo. Stationery with black borders ; "ML" monogram on page 1. With envelope addressed in Mary Lincoln's hand and with her free frank : "Free Mary Lincoln." Postmarked Saint Charles, Ill. 8 December. Mostly on her poor health and "my aching, broken, desolated life," and her plans to visit Florida, perhaps with her son Robert. She refers to the death of Tad: "without my blessed, darling son, who was such a comfort to me, I can scarcely live." Not in Turner. Letters written in this period are extremely scarce.

TAPER LINCOLN COLLECTION SALE TO ALPLM

LINCOLN, ABRAHAM.

Three manuscript documents, all in Lincoln's hand, from the legal case of Kitchell & Kitchell vs. Mary Ann Jacobus. 1851.

Lincoln "re-dresses" a neighborhood wrong. Lincoln defended the Kitchells against Jacobus' claim that they had slandered her reputation and referred to her as a woman of questionable reputation, specifically as a "whore."

a) 1851 Sept 16. Autograph manuscript, signed twice by Lincoln. 1 page. Folio. Docketed on verso. Lincoln files plaintiff's statement that defendant "is not guilty of speaking said words in manner and form...alleged." Jacobus alleged that Mildred Kitchell stated "Mary Ann Jacobus is a whore. Mary Ann Jacobus gets her clothes by whoring."

b) n.d. Autograph manuscript in Lincoln's hand. 1 page. Folio. Recording sworn statement of Jacobus regarding the plaintiff's not owning "any property whatever, beyond her wearing apparel."

c) n.d. Autograph manuscript in Lincoln's hand. 1 page. Folio. States that the ~~defendants deny "any charge against the chastity of the plaintiff"~~ and that Autograph legal document, signed by Moses Thorpe and J. Johnson, Clerk. 1852 Oct 11.

Monticello, Illinois. One page. Folio. Written on blue paper. Unusual legal affidavit in the case of Jordan vs Thorpe regarding "the value of a certain bull which it is claimed this affiant castrated," asserting that "said bull did not belong to said plaintiff...at any time after his change of condition by which he ceased to be a bull."

LINCOLN, ABRAHAM.

Autograph legal document, signed ("Lincoln, for defendant"). Filed 1853 Oct 4.

Pekin, Illinois. One page. Folio. Docketed on verso by Lincoln. A motion to quash the indictment in the case of The People of the State of Illinois vs John and Abner Shaffer, stating three objections to the charge, denying that the "defendants obtained the money, etc...by false pretenses" and moving that the indictment be quashed.

LINCOLN, ABRAHAM.

Autograph legal document, signed ("A. Lincoln.") Text of document contains Lincoln's full name written four times. 1854 Aug 11 (endorsed "satisfied in full 24 November 1858.")

Springfield. One full page. Folio. Written on blue paper. Lengthy indenture between Ritta Angelica D. Sylva and Abraham Lincoln, by which Sylva agrees to transfer to Abraham Lincoln a lot in Springfield if her debt to Lincoln of $125, with interest, is not paid in four years. Along left-hand margin is Lincoln's later endorsement (signed "A. Lincoln"), certifying that the note has been paid in full. The mortgagee was one of a group of Protestant Portuguese who immigrated to Illinois during this period. Basler 2 : 224-5.

LINCOLN, ABRAHAM.

Autograph letter signed ("A. Lincoln"). 1855 Jan 14.

Springfield. To Richard Yates. Two pages. 4to. With integral blank. Written on blue paper. Letter to a close political ally spelling out his strategy to secure an Illinois senatorial seat, in the wake of the reversal of the Missouri Compromise. Lincoln carefully tabulates the votes various candidates are likely to receive in the legislature when a count is taken to fill the vacant seat. Basler, supp I: 25 - 26.

LINCOLN, ABRAHAM.

Autograph letter signed ("A. Lincoln.") 1855 Feb 16.

Springfield. To J.O. Norton. Four full pages. 4to. Important letter regarding Lincoln's defeat in the contest for the Illinois Senate seat in February, 1855 (see preceding letter of Jan 14th on same matter). Lincoln refers to himself as "quite convalescent," depicts Governor Matteson as the cause of his difficulties, and analyzes the ups and downs of the balloting in the legislature. Not published until Basler supp 2:9-11. When purchased by the Taper collection, Mark Neely said this was the best Lincoln letter he had ever seen. Appeared in the exhibitions "Last Best Hope of Earth" and "Abraham Lincoln: A Personal Journey" at the Gerald Ford Presidential Museum.

LINCOLN, ABRAHAM.

Autograph document. "Fee Bill Execution Docket" book for DeWitt County, Illinois. 1855 June 20 – 1860 Spring term.

130 leaves. Folio (12 x 7 ½ in.) The "Execution Docket" book contains approximately 260 unnumbered pages. Bound in original marbled boards, with leather spine and comers. The book's pages are lined wove paper, lightly ruled into sections in pencil, with entries in numerous different hands, including Lincoln's. Most of these entries are in ink; but a few scattered ones are in pencil. As may be expected with a long and much-used book, the covers are well-worn, scuffed, and nearly detached, with portions of the top and bottom spine missing. However, the contents are very good.

Lincoln appears in this volume over fifty times, either by dockets in his own handwriting or by being identified as an attorney in various cases. The vast majority of these appearances (and all of his dockets) are from 1855, which year takes up most of the volume. The book begins with listings of criminal cases from offenses including whiskey-selling, gaming, "obstructing street" and malicious mischief; as well as one each for rape and for murder. These are then followed by listings of common law cases and, lastly, cases in chancery. Lincoln the lawyer is listed in over twenty cases : by surname, as an attorney, either alone or in partnership, and usually for the defense. Several entries show him appearing with Clifton H. Moore on behalf of the Illinois Central Railroad. In over thirty-five instances Lincoln has written a disposition entry, ranging from a simple penciled "Contd" to two and three-line ink dockets. These are cases in which he was acting as a judge, in the temporary absence of constituted authority -- a practice which was acceptable at the

When Lincoln historian Harry E. Pratt produced his study of "Judge" Abraham Lincoln, he was quick to point out that Lincoln's desire for justice to be rendered to all had earlier been addressed by him in New Salem, where Lincoln acted as arbiter of cock fights, horse races, and other forms of physical combat. Years later, Pratt tells us, Lincoln's fellow attorneys noted the same judicial spirit – the desire to act as arbiter "to conciliate and settle a dispute so as to leave the parties friends." Pratt divided his study among the three counties in which "Judge" Lincoln rode the circuit. But, when Pratt turned his attention to DeWitt County, he was unable to place "Judge" Lincoln there prior to 1858. The present "Execution Docket" book, however, places "Judge" Lincoln's activities in DeWitt County in June of 1855 and later in 1857, 1858, and in the spring of 1860 – making it a useful addition to any examination of Lincoln the judge.

LINCOLN, ABRAHAM

Autograph documents. The Bullock Land Transaction. 1855 - 1859. Comprising nine items, six of which are in Lincoln's hand..

History is generally pieced together from shards of information meticulously gathered together by scholars and, hopefully, arranged into meaningful patterns. Rarely does one find sufficient material to create an array of virtually continuous data to resurrect an almost seamless event with the dots connected. In the case of the Maria Bullock property rights in Springfield, Illinois, we have such a composite. It is not known why Maria L. Todd Bullock, the aunt of Mary Todd Lincoln, chose the young lawyer, Abraham Lincoln, over John Todd Stuart to represent her real estate interests, but to our great and good fortune, she did.

The legacy of the Lincoln-Bullock collaboration comes to us neatly packaged with ribbon and bow with so many of the parts unbroken and present. Rarely in the Lincoln world does one find so many documents related to a single activity that survive as a group.

TAPER LINCOLN COLLECTION SALE TO ALPLM

a) 1855 Aug 4. Autograph endorsement. 3-line narrative description of the property, in Lincoln's hand. And with a 9-line legal petition in Lincoln's hand, signed by Josiah Francis. Written on a manuscript plat and surveyor's record "Plat of Bullocks Addition to the city of Springfield," drawn and certified by Z.A. Enos, Sangamon County Surveyor. 2 pp. Folio. In 1855, wishing to dispose of her property in Springfield, Maria Bullock asked Lincoln to assist her with the sale. He agreed and, on August 4, 1855, obtained a survey and plat map of her holdings.

b) 1855. Aug 20. Autograph document. Promissory note consisting of five lines in Lincoln's hand. Signed by Viney. Two weeks later, on August 20, William S. Viney, a resident of Henry County, Iowa (according to items c) and g) below) purchased three of the lots from Bullock. He signed a promissory note and a mortgage (see following item).

c) 1855. Aug 20. Partially printed indenture, filled in by Lincoln. With later addendum in Lincoln's hand. The sale amounted to $180, with $18 paid in cash and the remainder in two annual installments and interest of six per cent / annum. The first payment was made and receipted by Lincoln on November 5, 1856.

A year later when payment fell due on the second note, Viney failed to remit the money. In that year, according to Lincoln, he "permitted [the lots] to be sold for the tax of 1856, and allowed the purchaser to pay the tax of 1857, so that [Bullock], in order to preserve her security, [was] compelled to redeem said lots from said sale, paying double the amount for which they were sold, and the single amount for 1857... and... [she was] compelled to pay the taxes for the year 1858." (items d – g below).

e) n.d. Partially printed document, filled in by clerk. Receipt for Lincoln.

f) 1859. Feb 8. Partially printed document, filled in by clerk. Receipt for Lincoln.

g) 1859 Feb 8. Autograph documents signed. Four documents combined into a legal brief describing various aspects of the transaction. All in Lincoln's hand and signed four times by him. 4 pp. Folio. Viney never paid his debt and when Bullock's relatives urged her to retrieve monies still due her, she pressed Lincoln for further action. On February 8, 1859, he requested a subpoena from the Sangamon County Court.

h) 1859 May 19. Autograph document, incorporating Lincoln's name in text. 1 p. 4to. An account of expenses paid to the County Clerk in connection with the case includes publication of a notice of Bullock's impending lawsuit.

i) 1859 May 19. Autographed brief summary of the Bullock / Viney transaction of the foreclosure and sale of land. 2pp. Folio. On May 19, Lincoln issued a decree summarizing the transaction and requesting foreclosure and the sale of Viney's property. Bullock won the suit and was awarded a judgment of $108.39. However, she had to wait two more years to recover her money.

Partly printed document, accomplished and signed ("Abraham Lincoln"). 1855 Aug 28.

Springfield. 1 page. Narrow oblong. A decorative printed promissory note, by which Isaac Lindsay promises to pay Lincoln the sum of $600 at 10% annual interest. Verso of document with an extensive and detailed record of Lindsay's repayment of the debt which began prior to the Lincoln-Douglas debates and lasted through much of Lincoln's presidency. From August 1857 to August 1860 these records are in Lincoln's hand. From September 1861 to May 1864 they are in the hand of Robert Irwin, a surrogate, as Lincoln had left Springfield for Washington, D.C. and the Presidency. This document shows Lincoln's remarkable business sense.

LINCOLN, ABRAHAM.

Lincoln, Abraham.

Autograph letter signed. 1858 Jan 29.

1 page. 4to. To John Olney. During the period when Lincoln was wearing his "judge's hat," his colleague John Olney asked him to evaluate the likelihood of a favorable result to a legal case Olney was considering. John Olney, a partner in the legal firm of Olney & McAtee in Shawneetown, Gallatin County, Illinois, was active in Republican Party politics, serving as a delegate to the state party convention in 1858. Two years later, he ran as a Republican presidential elector and on June 27, 1867, was selected to the bench of Illinois' 19th Circuit Court.

It is thought that the case under consideration is Daniel Doup vs. Ninian Primm and Samuel C. Gibson. Lincoln and his partner Herndon had previously been serving as Doup's attorneys regarding some Illinois real estate transactions. But, Doup died in the middle of this business (June of 1857), leaving a wife and several other heirs, ~~and Olney was drawn into some aspect of Doup's affairs. It is apparent from~~

[LINCOLN, ABRAHAM]

Manuscript proclamation written in an unidentified hand. 1861 19 April.

Washington, D.C. 3 pp. Folio. Integral blank with note : "original copy from Pub. Printers Office Washington." This exceedingly important proclamation, which opened the Civil War, orders a blockade of harbors in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee. This manuscript is most likely the copy of Lincoln's proclamation that was generated by Secretary of War Seward's office and forwarded to the Public Printer's Office, Washington, D.C. The blockade was ordered just a few days after the attack on Fort Sumter. The original, signed by Lincoln, is in the National Archives. This document in the Taper collection appeared in the exhibition "Last Best Hope of Earth."

[LINCOLN, ABRAHAM]

[Artifacts]

A collection of seventeen campaign torches.

These were used in the presidential campaigns of Abraham Lincoln as well as those of others dating to the 1870's and 1880's.

Take a metal container about the size of a soup can, drill a hole in the top, stuff a cloth wick into it, pour about a pint of coal oil or low-grade kerosene into the container, stick it on a pole about the size of a broomstick, and you have the makings of a homemade political campaign torch to light your way. Of course, since the beginning of time we have used torches to light our way. Think of the Statue of Liberty embedded in Ellis Island in New York harbor. Or think of the Olympic torch which is run around the world every four years since the ancient Greeks dreamed up the sporting idea. The first American campaign torch came into use in about 1837, was perfected during the Lincoln administration, and reached its apogee in the 1880's during Benjamin Harrison's presidential campaign. A gathering of these torches was carefully put together by a couple and offered for sale in 1993. Louise and Barry Taper were smart enough to buy it.

TAPER LINCOLN COLLECTION SALE TO ALPLM

a) 1860. Campaign torch. Improved model with revolving and oscillating frame. Collins # 2, variant.

b) circa 1860. Single swing flat strap torch. Painted : "Lincoln. Hamlin." Exhibited in the "The Last Best Hope of Earth" at the Huntington Library in California and the Chicago Historical Society.

c) 1860 / 1864. Eagle with two burners. One of the great rarities in political campaign torches. Large all brass eagle (about 9 inches wide x 10 inches high). Made in two stamped brass sections with large hollow center section and a small brass oil lamp inset at the top of each hollow wing. The Lincoln / Hamlin torch and the eagle torch were both thought to have been prepared for the marching organization called the "Wide-Awakes," who paraded at night during the 1860 / 1864 campaigns carrying torches, colored lanterns, banners, flags and transparencies, much in the same way as floats are used today. The first Wide-Awake club was organized in Hartford Connecticut on March 3rd 1860.

d) 1877. Two-burner tin torch. Collins # 26, variant.

e) 1877. Two-burner large tin torch. Collins # 26, variant.

f) 1880. Rifle torch. Variant. Sometimes, a more definite shape resembling that of a common musket was substituted for the bearing staff. By having such a device, the parader could conveniently execute the usual manual of arms without toppling the burning torch. Torches of this nature were sold consistently throughout the 1880's and appeared in sales catalogues for that period.

g) 1880. Ballot box torch. Collins # 29. The torch is composed of upper and lower metal plates joined by four posts, making a skeleton frame similar to the globe of a ballot box. The wick tube rises from the upper portion of the globe and extends above the upper plate, occupying the relative position of the slot into which ballots are deposited in a ballot box.

h) 1884. Combined torch, battle ax and rifle. Collins # 36, variant. The combined torch and battle ax first appeared in 1884. The ax is made of two plates soldered to each other at their front and back rear edges and provided with sockets to receive the staff. The torch is soldered to the upper socket.

i) May, 1885. Helmet torch. With metal eagle on front soldered to the face of the helmet. Almost unknown among torch variants. Sometimes a rubber tube passed from the torch as a chinstrap and into the mouth. By blowing into this tube, the parader could produce a large flash; thus, this device became known as the "helmet flash torch." Our only evidence of their existence is in contemporary illustrations of the period. Other than the present helmet torch, no example has ever been found.

j) circa 1888. Dome reversible torch on rifle. Collins # 67, variant.

k) 1888. Benjamin Harrison hat torch.

l) 1888. Portrait torch with Benjamin Harrison on one side and Levi Morton on the other.

m) 1889. Double swing c v torch. Collins # 81.

n) n.d. Single swing torch. Collins # 66.

o) n.d. Single swing torch. Collins # 66.

p) n.d. Single swing torch. Collins # 66.

q) n.d. Hybrid contraction.

[Envelopes]

Philatelic collection relating to Abraham Lincoln.

Collection of thirty-one postal envelopes, primarily dating from Lincoln's political campaign of 1860. Philatelic items have taken a sharp rise in the market in recent years. Among them, the most desirable are covers that have actually passed through the mail. The elements that contribute most prominently to value are subject, design, color, detail, presentation, postal usage, scarcity and condition. Individual values of the thirty-one envelopes gathered here, substantially from Lincoln's political campaign in 1860, range from $100 to $1250. Accordingly, the value of the aggregate is as indicated.
